

Mark J. Weithofer, Managing Director - Domestic Network Planning: Mark oversees the development of United's domestic route network including the evaluation of new and existing flights throughout the United States and Canada. Additionally, Mark is responsible for forecasting United's future system capacity for budgeting and corporate planning functions. Mark and his team are intensely focused on engineering United's flight schedules to align with evolving consumer demand and creating robust global connectivity to small, medium, and large domestic cities via a data driven planning approach. Mark joined United in 2006 and is a native of the Dayton, Ohio area. He is based at the airline's Chicago headquarters.